Grundfragen der Philosophie und der Theorie des Rechts/ Basic Questions of Philosophy and Theory of Law (2/4 ECTS)

- Vorlesung

Die Vorlesung „Grundfragen der Philosophie und Theorie des Rechts“ will mit Bezügen zu allgemein-philosophischen Grundlagen einen Zugang zu den gegenwärtigen, internationalen Debatten der Rechtsphilosophie eröffnen. Die Vorlesung behandelt die zur Einführung entscheidenden Begriffe: Wie ist der Begriff Rechtsphilosophie zu bestimmen? Wie können Rechtstheorie, Rechtsphilosophie und Rechtsethik unterschieden werden? In welchem Verhältnis steht die Rechtsphilosophie zu anderen rechtswissenschaftlichen Fächern und anderen Disziplinen? Zentrale Gegenstände sind weiterhin Grundlagen der Rechtstheorie und Rechtsethik. Für die Rechtstheorie stehen Fragen wie die nach dem Begriff des Rechts und der Rechtsgeltung im Vordergrund sowie das Verhältnis des Rechts zu anderen normativen Ordnungen, wie es sich besonders in der auch unmittelbar rechtsdogmatisch relevanten Debatte um Rechtspositivismus und Naturrecht niederschlägt. Zur Rechtstheorie zählen ferner wissenschaftstheoretische Fragen, die sich etwa auf den Wissenschaftscharakter und die Methoden der Rechtsdogmatik richten. Für die Rechtsethik steht allgemein die Frage im Mittelpunkt, wie gerechtes Recht bestimmt werden kann. Dabei geht es etwa um Konzeptionen von Gerechtigkeit und Gleichheit, besonders mit Blick auf wirkmächtige gegenwärtige Gerechtigkeitstheorien. Die Rechtsethik umfasst schließlich auch Fragen der demokratischen Legitimation von Recht, staatlichem Zwang und Strafe sowie danach, wie – nach überpositiven Maßstäben – Rechtssetzung und Rechtsverbindlichkeit in einer freiheitlichen Ordnung gerechtfertigt werden können.

- Lecture

The lecture "Basic Questions of Philosophy and Theory of Law" aims to open up access to the current, international debates in the philosophy of law with references to general philosophical foundations. The lecture deals with the concepts that are crucial for the introduction: How is the term philosophy of law to be defined? How can legal theory, legal philosophy and legal ethics be distinguished? What is the relationship between the philosophy of law and other jurisprudential subjects and disciplines? Central subjects continue to be the foundations of legal theory and legal ethics. For legal theory, the focus is on questions such as the concept of law and the validity of law, as well as the relationship of law to other normative orders, as is particularly reflected in the debate on legal positivism and natural law, which is also directly relevant to legal dogmatics. Legal theory also includes questions of the theory of science, which are directed, for example, at the scientific character and methods of legal dogmatics. Legal ethics generally focuses on the question of how just law can be determined. This involves, for example, conceptions of justice and equality, especially with regard to effective contemporary theories of justice. Finally, legal ethics also includes questions of the democratic legitimacy of law, state coercion and punishment, as well as how - according to super-positive standards - the establishment and binding nature of law can be justified in a liberal order.

Grundrechtsschutz in Europa / Protection of Fundamental Rights in Europe (2/4 ECTS)

Die Vorlesung führt in die Grundlagen der Europäischen Menschenrechtskonvention sowie der Europäischen Grundrechtecharta ein, behandelt die Verschränkung von nationalem Recht, Unionsrecht und Völkerrecht und macht die Studierenden mit den Instrumenten des Grundrechtsschutzes im europäischen Rechtskontext vertraut. Die Vorlesung wird als Live-Veranstaltung angeboten und von weiteren begleitenden digitalen Zusatzformaten unterstützt.

- Lecture

The lecture introduces the basics of the European Convention on Human Rights and the European Charter of Fundamental Rights. It also deals with the entanglement of national law, union law and international law and familiarizes students with the instruments of fundamental rights protection in the European legal context. The lecture is offered as a live event and is supported by additional digital formats.

Courses held in English

English Legal Terminology II (4/2 ECTS)

- Lecture

The lecture serves to impart knowledge of the English legal language. In terms of content, an overview of all important areas of English law is given.

First the institutional circumstances (court structure, etc.), the emergence of the English legal system with its peculiarities, the usual methods of interpreting laws and the methods of applying case law are discussed. Furthermore, individual legal areas of English civil law, criminal law and public law are dealt with.

Introduction to East Asian Law (4/2 ECTS)

- Lecture

The legal systems of Mainland China, Japan, Korea and Taiwan have been modernised through the extensive reception of Western law. The influence of German law is particularly evident in the area of substantive civil law. The lecture provides a comprehensive overview of the development of the four legal systems, legal education, the court system and the culture of litigation as well as an insight into private law, in particular contract law, in these East Asian legal systems.

Continental Traditions in Jurisprudence (6 ECTS)

- Lecture

In this lecture, we will give a first grounding in the history of the continental European tradition of legal philosophy as distinct from, but connected to, Anglo-Scandinavian thinkers. We will try to make the case for continental traditions and show that they follow significantly different strategies than those employed in the common law world. The focus of these lectures will, however, not be on recreating the past, but on discussing current problems (as they can be framed by traditional approaches). We will look at specific topics and work out, together with the participants, how the efforts and failures of important legal thinkers may help us in better understanding some recurrent problems of legal theory and law. First, we will provide a grounding in the continental debates on traditional questions of jurisprudence by trying to chart some of the historical discursive options, e.g. in the confront of the following themes: the role of morals and/or justice in law, the question of authority, the possibility of an ultimate foundation of law, the viability of legal scholarship (so called legal science).

Second, however, we will focus on the idea of a structural analysis of legal orders, as the more recent continental debate has shown more fruitful results in the daily application of theory to actual problems of the law, for example: conflicts of norms, legal errors, legal gaps, legal interpretation and decision-making, structures of the legal process, connections between “material” and “procedural” law.

By engaging in discussion with traditional ways of understanding legal phenomena in their context and in their relation to concrete problems of law, participants should be enabled to start seeing the structural problems of legal theory and argue their theoretical case, rather than learn a series of facts about past legal philosophers. Participants will be encouraged to analyze the theoretical dimensions of seemingly simple legal problems. The chosen approach will emphasize the connections between the so called material and procedural law, in order to unveil the law as a continuous, complex process that re-reads reality and schematizes its own interpretations about it in a particular structured way.
